

You will find different pets all over the world

There are different sorts of animals all over the world and one of them can be a pet for you. Some are small and some are really large, but they are all good. A pet is your companion that you have to take care of and love. Pets are all different because of their actions and behaviour. Some people have parrots and some have turtles, and that is okay because they love their pets. People should have pets to have someone to talk to and play with.

You can train a pet in two ways. You can make it listen by scaring it or loving it. Some animals are too vicious to train and some are illegally kept as pets. Animals can become endangered of extinction or carry diseases like malaria. Some animals even preform in a circus and do loads of cool tricks.

I have three pets of my own, a dog and two turtles. My brother likes our dog more than he likes the turtles. But I love my turtles very much and I call them my best pet-friends. They are always there when I need them. For two years I hoped to get a turtle until I once saw one in a pet shop. I wanted them because turtles are very cute reptiles. They are very interesting too. Turtles live in water and on land and some types of turtles choose both places for their home. I got the turtles as a present for my 7th birthday. It was quite a surprise for me. Now they are my pets for four years. At first, they were so tiny, I could hold them in my one hand, but now I can barely hold them with my both hands. Sometimes my turtles fight and sometimes they pinch each other. They do not have teeth but they still bite. Turtles have nails that really hurt. People usually say that turtles are slow, but in fact they are actually pretty fast.

I can say that animals still keep their natural instincts even when they are adopted by a person. Turtles can climb short and holey walls. We bring our turtles outside in the summer. They always go towards water if they run away. That happened to my turtles the last time I let them walk around but eventually I found them by the pond.

All in all, a pet can become your friend for life so find a pet and have a best friend which can make your daily life more interesting.

My cute turtles